Life can throw unexpected challenges our way. Sometimes, it feels overwhelming, and we need a helping hand to guide us through these difficult situations compassionately. Whether battling anxiety, depression, trauma, sex, intimacy, or navigating complex relationships, we can work together through your journey toward emotional well-being through therapy. We specialize in affirmative psychotherapy for the LGBTQIA and POC communities, utilizing a trauma-informed approach with survivors of trauma and addressing cultural and acculturation issues. We support DACA recipients, first-generation students in pursuit of higher education, and individuals dealing with depression, anxiety, interpersonal challenges, sexual difficulties, and various life stressors.
