Austin creates an oasis of desirable communities that are touched by the beauty of it's presence. I'm one resident who considers myself fortunate to be a part of the Austin lifestyle. Combining a passion for my work with love for my community, I've earned my place among Austin's leading real estate professionals. I bring to every transaction a personal touch, innovative marketing techniques and in-depth knowledge of today's complex market to ensure your home sale or purchase is a success from start to finish. This year 2015 mark's my 19th year in the business. I've seen my fair share of market swings and pride myself in being able to help my clients in any market condition. I'd love the opportunity to work for you today. Visit my Downtown Living Blog. Follow Gregg's Team on Facebook.
