Stephanie M. Caballero, Esq. is the found of the The Surrogacy Law Center, PLC and has represented over a thousand Intended Parents, Surrogates and Donors from all over the world through Surrogacy, Egg Donation, Sperm Donation, and Embryo Donation. Stephanie specializes exclusively in Family Formation and Reproductive Law and has appeared on various programs and print media including Creating a Family, NPR, The Los Angeles Times, The Union Tribune and the L.A. Daily Journal. Stephanie had her own journey through infertility: after eight years of treatments including having endured more than 10 artificial insemination procedures, three surgeries, three miscarriages, and 13 IVF procedures she finally realized her dream of having children when a surrogate carried her twins. Stephanie also had to adopt her twins because the state where they were born did not recognize surrogacy. Stephanie is also a member of the American Fertility Association, American Bar Association, American Society of Reproductive Medicine, and the San Diego Bar Association. and serves as an Executive Board Member of the Legal Professional Group of the American Society of Reproductive Medicine and she also serves on the board of Fertile Action. Stephanie received her undergraduate degree in English Literature from UCLA and her law degree from Southern California Institute of Law. She currently resides in the surrogacy-friendly state of California in San Diego County, California with her family.
