There is a real challenge when it comes to finding windows and doors for your new home. What material are you going to choose, how much protection do you need or do you opt for passive house windows or just energy efficient. What style of windows you like and will work best for your home: sliding, hung or turn and tilt windows. After making these decisions, you have to think about your doors: in swing or out swing, sliding doors with two or more panels, folding doors or a lift and slide unit. And last but not least: what finish do you want and will go with the style of your home. All these questions you have to discuss with your architect but also with a window and door specialist that operates as your broker. Fenstermann LLC specializes in windows and doors made in Germany. The choices for our clients are almost limitless - from vinyl to wood and aluminum and a mix of these materials with 100s of color choices and all in custom sizes and configurations. The high energy efficiency is second to none - passive house windows and exterior doors are available too. We do have direct contact to all the main window and door manufacturer out of Germany and bring the newest technology to the USA. We have done many custom residential homes throughout the USA and have been features for unique solutions for windows and doors. With our partners in Germany, we do also develop custom solutions to fulfill architect's, designer's and home owner's ideas. our projects. Our windows and door feature a very special opening operation – tilt and turn or turn and tilt, which means that the units either swing in like a door or pivot on the top for secured and controlled ventilation. The security hardware has multiple mushroom shape locking points that make it very difficult to break in – specialty glass (high impact resistant glass) can be additionally used to prevent literally any break ins. As part of our one stop specialist mission, we also offer specialty window coverings for tilt and turn windows and doors as well as for large sliding doors. These minimalistic window shades host between the glass stops of the units and do travel with it – so they stay straight on your window even if it is tilted. More than 500 fabrics in color, design and print make it easy to dress up any room. Are you looking for interior doors or entrance doors? Our specialty custom shop creates beautiful custom door for your home - all to your specifications. www.SanDiegoPivotDoors.com - we are doors.
